TRIAL OF MATTHIAS.

From the Journal of Commerce. TRIAL OF MATTHIAS FOR THE MURDER OF MR. PIERSON.

White Plains, Friday evening, 8 o'clock. Mrs Folger cross examined.

Q. Were not you regarded as the Mother in this con-

Q. As you were the mother did not you direct in the domestic concerns? A. Only under Matthias, or by his directions. Whenever I went into Mr Pierson's room, I was accused by Matthias of keeping the evil spirit in Pierson. I never forbid any person entering Mr Pierson's room. I never forbid Isabella or Pierson's daughter going into it. I do not think that Pierson ever asked for any thing which was refused him, except on the occasions already spoken of. He got his meals regularly until he became senseless.

Q. Why was not a physician called on to attend

A. We all believed that physicians, ministers and lawyers were the greatest evils in the world. I sincerely believed that there was no need of medicine, or any such remedies to cure Mr Pierson. Matthias preached this doctrine, which I then believed, but do not believe it now. The idea was to torment the evil spirit until it departed. We all sincerely wished for Mr Pierson's recovery, but there was nothing done for him but wash him and put him in the bath. We acted so in accordance with what we thought our line of duty, and I was treated, when sick, in the same way myself. A community of interest in property was part of the doctrine, but no one called the property theirs but Matthias. He frequently said to me, "How dare you speak so to me in my own house." I mean by a community of interests in property, that it should be a common stock .-The greater part of the property was Mr Folger's, and the house was bought by Mr Pierson, and put into the common stock. Isabella brought in nothing. She was brought there by Matthias, and he would not let her take wages. She brought some furniture which was understood to belong to Matthias; she was a disciple of his before I was, and had resided with him; she lived with Mr Pierson before that, and worked for him, but did not live with him in the capacity of house-keeper. Louis was Matthias' coachman, and was hired by him. The last time Mr Pierson came up from New York, he came alone in the steamboat, and not in the carriage with Louis. When Isabella slapped Mr Pierson, her doing so did not appear to us in the same light that it does now. At that time we believed that if we lifted him tenderly, and with care, the evil spirit which was in him would come into us, and that in order to prevent it, it was necessary to treat him roughly, which our nature would not permit us to do, but Isabella having more resolution than us, and laboring under the same delusion, she slapped his face, and desired him to come out of his hellish sleep. Our acquaintance with Mr Piersen commenced in 1826, hefore his wife died. Shortly before her death, he adopted the idea of a first and second resurrection. Mrs Pierson was very abundant in the labors of religion.

Counsel for the prosecution objected to this line of Mr Western said that he wanted to show that Mr Pierson's mind and body were in a shattered condition before his acquaintance with the prisoner. He wanted to show Pierson's liability to fall into disease, and that such was the state of his mind, that when his wife died, he said she would arise on the third day, and on the evening of that day he prepared tea for her, and went into the room where she was lying dead, and called her to tea; and that therefore Mr Pierson had not been deluded by Matthias, but before he knew him.

Cross-examination of Mrs Folger continued .- The farther Mr Pierson's character is enquired into, the more clearly will it appear that he was neither an insane or week minded man. Mr Pierson believed that the days of the Apostles would be revived, and all their power to heal the sick and raise the dead would be restored. When the physicians gave up all hopes of curing Mr Pierson's wile, he said that "god's extremity is man's opportunity," and that the elders of the church should be called together, and his wife should be annointed. Mr Pierson then sent for several men and women who came to his house, but I do not know whether they were elders of the church or not, one of them was a methodist minister. On their arrival prayer was made below and above stairs, and Mr Pierson then annointed his wife. In doing so he sheltered himself under the word of God, and obeyed the injunction of scripture, which says, "if there be any sick amongst you, let them call for the elders of the church and annoint them with oil, and they will be healed. Mr Pierson expected that his wife would not die, and that God would heal her. I was at Pierson's house on a Friday, as well as I can remember, and his wife died in a few days after. Mr Pierson then expected that his wife would rise from the dead. I attended meetings at his house after the death of his wife. I was not aware that he had fits before the Fall he came to Sing Sing. I cant remember what year that was. It was the Fall before he died. When he had a fit he made a noise in his throat when the fit was going off; I did not observe any thing else. The first fit I saw Mr Pierson have, was on a sofa in his house, in Third street : it lasted a very short time, I think not more three or four minutes. Not being then so much under the influence of Matthias as I was at a subsequent period, I washed Mr Pierson's face with cold water, and rubbed his hands, and afterwards bathed his feet in warm water, ane applied drafts to them. When he had a fit he did not lose his senses, but was aware of his condition, and as soon as the fit was over he continued the conversation, as if the fit had not happened, and would begin it exactly at the place he left off speaking when the fit interrupted him. He had not any fit for a good while after he went to Sing Sing. The first bad one he had was on the Tuesday night previous to his death.

Q. Did not your own good sense teach you that medical aid was necessary for the recovery of Mr Pier-

A. No ! not then, my good sense taught me so before I went into that concern, and since I quit it, and I would have resorted to the ordinary means of curing Mr Pierson's disease, did I not then believe that Matthias could cure him. It was a long time before my confidence was established in Matthias, and when my confidence is once established in any person it is not easily shaken. I was confident that Matthias had the nower to cure Mr Pierson, and was therefore unceasing in asking him to call mightily on father to deliver him I considered myself a woman of prayer, and Mr Pierson was truly a man of prayer, but we were forbid to pray to any God but Matthias. I did not consider Mr Pierson's life in danger, as I believed that he would live ever. I thought that the last enemy to be destroyed was death, and that Matthias had come to destroy that enemy. I often told Matthias that Mr Pierson's symptoms were not good; that his tongue was coated, and that he needed evacuation : in reply Matthias told me was an interval of some weeks between the fits, except the last attacks; he generally had the fits in the afternoon. Not after a hearty supper, our suppers were light ones. Immediately before the last attack he was working in the barn and before he went there he had been assisting in raking hay; the day was fair; the fits were not know what they are called by physicians. Doctor Payne attended him in New York. The fits were Counse more aggravated after Pierson came to Sing Sing; when he had them there, there was a twisting of his arm and head and he died in that position; when he fell on the floor in his room his straw mattrass was taken from his bedstead and put on the floor by order of Matthias, as he said Pierson had a devil which would

Did you not detect Mr Pierson or Elizabeth listening at one time and apprize Matthias of it?

Yes, I did. Mr Pierson's sickness was considered a defilement, and Matthias said we should burn every thing that was in the room. Matthias said the sick spirit defiled the room and it extended to the parlor, in consequence of which Mr Matthias wished the door to be closed which led from the parlor to the kitchen, where we then ate our meals; I had an errand to the kitchen, and in passing through the hall perceived the door open, and pulled it to, as Mr Matthias and Isabella were then talking loudly in the lower hall ; I did my errand in the kitchen, and when I was returning from it, and came within sight of the parlor door, I discovered Elizabeth pushing the door which I had pulled to, as if she had opened it at her father's request, for the purpose of enabling him to listen, and that she was then closing it; I then went up to Matthias and Isabella, and said perhaps you don't wish Mr Pierson to hear you, and Elizabeth has opened the door.* Elizabeth, Mr Pierson's daughter, was capable of bringing water and little necessaries to her father-she was obedient to him, but I would not expect as much from her as from older persons. I would not insinuate that she was wanting in affection to her father. She obeyed her father, and he obeyed Matthias. The bath was given to Pierson by Matthias' orders. Pierson was then palsied and his leg twisted; it was understood that Matthias held the property for all belonging to the kingdom. I cannot tell whether it was Elizabeth or Isabella prepared the blackberries-it was Isabella's duty to do it-it was a little boy, son of Matthias, who brought in the blackberries and took them to the kitchen whilst Matthias remained in the field. I do not remember whether the blackberries were on the table before Matthias came in. Supper was not kept waiting for him but for Mr Pierson. The blackberries were prepared with white sugar in the ordinary way-I eat but two of them, and remarked that they were sour and not quite ripe, and for that reason did not eat any more of them. I did not on that occasion perceive any thing extraordinary in the manner of Matthias, except what occurred relative to the plate. When Pierson vomited he threw up a quantity of blackberries. No one in the house was allowed to act for themselves except Matthias gave them liberty to do so.

veyance and bills of sale from Pierson to Matthias, of the house and land at Sing Sing-a house and furniture in it, in Third street, New York-and the furniture in the house at Sing Sing, amounting in all to about $8000. The deed of conveyance stated this as a reason why Pierson gave this property to Matthias-"I believe that Matthias is engaged in building up the kingdom of God, and I give him this property for that purpose." Matthias surrendered this property to Pierson's heirs, last

†Catherine Galloway lived at Sing Sing at Pierson's house in August, 1834. Went there the February bethen in the belief that Matthias's doctrines were trueresided in New York before I went to Sing Singheard Mrs Folger's testimony relative to Matthias' doctrine -these were the doctrines he inculcated -don't think there is any difference between Mrs Folger's account of his doctrines and the one I would give-agrees with Mrs Folger in what she said relative to the household affairs-remembers the Tuesday when Mr Pierson was taken ill in the barn-saw him when he came out of his room on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, and

During that period he sometimes had the fits slightly -sometimes at table, and Matthias would take him away-was not in his room Saturday nor Mondaywas at the table on Monday evening when Pierson made the noise in his room. I thought I heard Mr. P. fall, and said father shall I go, and rose from my chair. M said no, you are always the first to go. Witness did not go in. On Tuesday night witness saw him when he was getting the bath-he was then lying in the bed on the floor-helped to make up his bed. Elizabeth and Antony put him in the bath-did not see him again before he died-I was afraid to see him-I saw him after he was laid out-dont recollect that any quarrel took place between Matthias and Pierson immediately before his death. If any thing was not right, Matthias was angry, his voice loud and vociferous. The specimen he gave yesterday was but a small sample of his conduct, he occasionally said that we should be cursed, and he would threaten to chain us to the bottomless pit of which he had the key-that we should lose our final reward of entering the kingdom, and sometimes we were threatened with annihilatoin. Saw Mrs Drach there, did not hear her express a wish to see Pierson.-Heard Mrs Folger speak to Matthias about it, but he continued preaching and did not answer her. Cross-examined relative to sick persons in the family, we were taught that all sickness was spirits, and it were to be removed by resisting them with prayer. I was treated in this way when I was sick. All the members of the family were treated when sick, as Pierson was treated. Mrs Folger also was treated in the same way, and not permitted to have any medicine, but desired to have faith in Matthias, and he would remove it. Pierson sometimes had fits two or three times during the week, but I did not think he had them so often in the spring-saw nothing in the treatment of Pierson which was more unkind than that shown to the rest of the family. Mrs Folger's testimony relative to my getting up to go from the table to see Matthias, was correct.

Direct examination-Does not know what way Pierson was treated in his room except whilst I was in it when he was put in the hot bath.

The case for the prosecution rested here. It was nov near eleven o'clock, and counsel for the prisoner requested the Court to adjourn.

Judge Ruggles.—If Pierson's death was hastened by negligence of the prisoner, it was then a question whether he is not guilty of manslaughter under the statute .-The Court had already remarked that there was not sufficient evidence to support the principal part of the case, as there was no certainty that the deceased had been poisoned, no poison having been detected in his stomach or body, or had been any poison traced to the prisoner. It was not necessary that all these three circumder a short notice. stances should be proved in order to convict the prisoner, but in the present case there was no evidence of any one of them. Both the doctors concurred in saying, that the post mortem examination did not furnish sufficient evidence to enable them to say positively that Pierson died by poison. There was therefore no evi dence to prove that the prisoner was guilty of that charge, and if such a verdict was returned by the jury, it would be the duty of the Court to grant a new trial. There could be no doubt, however, that the Jury would acquit the prisoner of that part of the charge, without leaving the box. But on the other part of the indictment, the prisoner might perhaps be convicted of man slaughter, and the Court was inclined to let the jury say whether the prisoner was not guilty of manslaughter in the fourth degree, for letting Pierson die by culpable negligence. If he was master of the house, so that Pierson was under his control, the prisoner was then bound to administer to him such remedies as a man was entitled to, according to the laws of humanity. It was entitled to, according to the laws of humanity. It was House lots, or for other purposes. Two thirds or the whole the opinion of the Court that the relation which existed will be sold, and payment made easy. The land will be sold between the prisoner and Pierson, made it incumbent on the former to procure Pierson the necessary assistance in his sickness. The only doubt that existed on the subject was, whether the prisoner did die in consequence of negligence. It appeared that Pierson had been formerly affected with epilepsy, and that the fits occurred oftener from the time he came to Sing Sing until his death, and that latterly they were frequent and severe. A few days before his death he was violently attacked, and it did not appear that there had been any culpable negligence on the part of the prisoner until the Sunday before Pierson's death; until then he had been afforded remedies, though no physician was sent for:
and although the influence which was exerted over Pierson's mind might have prevented him from sending for a physician, it did not appear that it was in other respects out of his power to do so. On Monday he had a fit in the barn, which showed symptoms of epilepsy and fit in the barn, which showed symptoms of epilepsy and the lost the use of his himbs, on one side.

He was in this state taken into the nouse, and proposity. could not have long survived that attack. It was therefore uncertain whether his death had not proceedtherefore uncertain whether his death had not proceeded from that cause alone, and the Court considered that

The question now seems to be, did Pierson come to his death by the negligence of Matthias. Mere religious finaticism does not exempt a man from discharging his duties, and a fanatic must obey the laws as well as every other man. It may be then a question for the Jury to say whether Pierson came to his death by the negligence of Matthias, he being at the time a sane man.

A Biographical Sketch of Mohammed Ali, Pacha! of Egypt, Suria and Arabia, has recently been published at Washington, in a pamphlet form, from which we gather the following interesting facts.

Mohammed Ali Pacha, was born at Caralla, in European Turkey, in 1769. He learned to read and write at the age of forty-five, and has risen from the humble Virginia Elections.—We copy the following re- calling of a tobacco vender, to the throne of an extensive empire, and now has at his command a disciplined Army of 50,000 men, a Navy of nine line of battle ships, and a revenue of twenty millions of dollars. He desires to raise Egypt to the level of European civilization; and his printing presses, schools, factories and internal improvements are evidences of enlightened views in civil

At an early age he was taken into the service of the Governor of Caralla-soon after which an opportunity offered by which he obtained a character for prudence, ingenuity and bravery. A certain village had refused to pay its usual contributions, which he, at the head of a body of armed men, undertook to collect. He proceeded to the village at the hour of prayer, and after oining in the ceremony, sent to request four of the principal Turks to wait on him, under the pretext of important business. They unsuspectingly repaired to the Mosque, when he commanded his men to seize and bind them, and conduct them to Caralla. This stratagem resulted in the payment of the contributions, and in the promotion of Mohammed to the rank of Captain of a Company, who had also presented to him in marriage, a relative of the Governor.

He was soon called to enter on a wider field of enterprise. Napoleon had invaded Egypt, and secured possession of the country. In 1800, the Sublime Porte. in alliance with Great Britain, made preparations to recover Egypt. One hundred men were despatched to his assistance from the district of Caralla, under the command of the Governor's son, Mohammed being appointed to the double office of his menter and second man, sent to the house of correction for six months .in command. His abstemious habits and sound and vigorous constitution, leave little doubt that he will transmit his power and empire, unimpaired to his successor-and that, as he declared thirty years ago, when invited to take Supreme command in Egypt, having conquered the country with the sword, by the sword he will preserve it!

Uncle Toby and Widow Wadman .- We have seen the widow-the charming, slender-waisted, smallaukled widow Wadman; and the good-natured, kindhearted, unsuspecting uncle Toby, "whose business she did." We cannot imagine an attitude in which a woman could appear more lovely, in which her whole being could more feelingly speak. How can you live comfortless and alone, without a bosom to lean your heart on, or trust your cares to? Let the ladies of Boston improve this chance; let them call with their stronger appeal in favour of matrimony than a whole volume of poetry. Uncle Toby is a living reproach to bachelors-we mean the hard, the obdurate ones .-Behold him gently inclining towards her; his arm half round her waist, his hand spread for the contact, his fingers ready to meet that exquisitely wrought neck of hers; and yet he is so abashed - so much of a man of honour-he cannot perpetrate that crime. We wished ourselves in Toby's place, and the widow alive.

The following is the address of General FOSTER, delivered at Danvers, on Monday, upon laying the corner-stone of a permanent and appropriate monument, in memory of the eight citizens of Danvers who fell at the battle of Lexington, the commencement of the American Reveluing. Believed the Susan H. Colburn.

S. Biake.

In Dedham, on Thursday evening, by Rev Mr White, Timo. the battle of Lexington, the commencement of the Susan H. Colburn.

Friends and Fellow Citizens :- On the ever memorable 19th day of April, 1775, now sixty years past, it was my fortune to meet in this place with numbers of my fellow-citizens, to defend the rights and liberties of my country. The alarm of war was sounded. The enemy was then amongst us. The first blood of Americans was then shed. On the plains of Lexington the roar of arms was then sounding-the strife of war was late of Boston, 4

On that morning, more than one hundred of my townsmen hastened to the field of battle; unused to the artifices of war-unskilled in the arts of slaying their fellow-men-their hearts were flowing with zeal in their country's cause, and ready to offer their lives on the altar of their liberties. Seven of those who thus started in the prime of life and vigor of manhood, ere that day's sun descended in the west, were numbered with the dead. Many others have marks of the welldirected fire of the enemy.

To perpetuate the memory of those who then offered their lives for their country's good; to perpetuate the principles with which they were actuated, is the purpose of this day's meeting—is the purpose of the mon-ument, the foundation of which has now been laid. May this purpose be attained -may these principles be remembered, and made the rule of action in all coming time; and may the names which are here recorded endure, until the granite of our own hills shall be crumbled in the dust.

I was then twenty six years of age. About ten day before, I had been chosen to command a company of minute-men, who were at all times to be in readiness at a moment's warning. They were so ready. They all assembled on the very spot where we this day assembled; they all went; and in about four hours from the time of meeting, they travelled on foot (full half of the way upon the run) sixteen miles, and saluted the This they did most effectually, as the records of that day most clearly preve. I discharged my musket at the enemy a number of times, (I think eleven) with two balls each time, and with well-directed aim. My comrade, (Mr Cleaves, of Beverly) who was then standing by my side, had his finger and ramrod cut away by a shot from the enemy.

Whether my shots took effect, I cannot say-but this I can say, if they did not, it was not for want of determined purpose in him who sent them. Of those under my immediate command, there is no one left alive. Three of them were slain on that day; I alone remain to tell their story. I, a tottering old man, through the goodness of God, am still permitted to be here. I am permitted to see this day's ascending sun, and to witness these interesting ceremonies. I can truly say it is one of the happiest days and most pleasing events of my life. A few days more, at most, and perhaps very few, and I also shall be numbered with the dead.

But while I see the spirit that moved the patriots of 76 bright and vigorous in the breasts of their descendants; while I see the rights of my fellow-citizens maintained, and the Constitution of my country defended, I can say with Simeon of old, "Now, Lord, lettest thou thy servant depart in peace, for mine eyes have seen the salvation of MY COUNTRY."

From Buenos Ayres .- The British Packet, dated Feb. 14, 1835, has been received at the Philadelphia Exchange per the barque Louisa, at that port. The Government of the Province of Mendoza, under the date of Jan. 8, has forwarded to that of Buenos Ayres, a copy of a dispatch received from the President of the Republic of Chili, relative to the operation of the Cordillera, against the Indians of the south. It appears that these troops in conjunction with some friendly Indians, attacked the remains of the tribe who had escaped from the army of General Rosa in the late campaign-and after a variety of manœuvres succeeded in killing upwards of 100 of them, and capturing various families, and a quantity of cattle. The loss on the part of the assailants was 2 soldiers and 5 friendly Indians killed.

A Dumb Conscience. - Not long since a man named Peter, was arrested in this city, for having stolen a sum innocence. One of his inquisitors, however, pressing revolving Lights of La Manche, by having a fixed Light his hand upon his breast, appealed to him, "Peter, is'nt there something in here that tells you, you have taken that money?" "Faith, sir," replied Peter, "there's nothing in here but some porridge they gave me this morning before I left the jail, and that your honor knows ean't spake." Upon the examination, the proof came stronger and stronger against poor Peter, when he at length burst out, "Faith, and I don't know but I may as well confess it, for I see you are determined Sch Flor del Mar, 10 days from Murfreesbore for Beston, but into Newport on Sunday last—was capsized in a squall on the 17th, and lost 51 bales cotton, 30 hbls rosin, and every thing on deck. may as well confess it, for I see you are determined to prove it upon me at any rate."—Providence Jour-

Light House of the Seven Islands. In the Department of the North Coast, France.

Mariners are informed that from the first day of May, 1835, revolving Light will be established on the extreme eastern point of Isle-aux-Moines, one of the Seven Islands. The flashes of light will last from 4 to 5 seconds, and will succeed one another every three minutes. The Light may be seen at the distance of 34 marine leagues. This Light is obstructed in an ENE direction by the little Island of Rouzic, situated 2 f-5 marine miles from the Isle-aux-Moines. Mariners must be careful not to mistake this Light for the revolving Light of Cape Frehel, the flashes of which are every 23 minutes. This of money from a trunk. Peter stoutly persisted in his Light of the Seven Islands is distinguished from all the other nating with the flashes of the revolving. A NOTICE 'having appeared in this morning's "Post," signed Noah James, advising the public that a power of attorney granted by him to me, has been revoked, it is due to myself to say, that the revokation is gratifying to me, as I derived no profit from it, and shall not hereafter feel called upon (as I did while I held it) to pay $20 house rent to prevent his family from being turned out during his absence.

With respect to the Notes which I hold, s gned by him, they are all for a valid consideration, and when Mr James, by cattioning the public against receiving them, lessens their value he must be careful lest he commit a fraud upon me. Then ostensible value is about $900. Their real value, considering Mr James's circumstances, is small; for my own sake, I wish his notes were more marketable. Copy of a Certificate, furnished by the Chief Engineers on the New-York Canals.—we, the subscribers have seen and examined the Quarry of Water Cement, laying near the Delaware and Hudson Canal, in the town of Marbletown, and about seven miles from the entrance of said Canal into the tide-water of the Hudson River. The quantity appears inexhaustible, and the quality we consider equal, if not superior, to any Water Cement found in the state of New-York, or used in the construction of the Erie and Champlain Canals.

The subscriber, having been employed as a workman on the foundation of the Custom House, now being erected in the city of New-York, testifies, that having been directed by Col. Samuel Thomson, the Superintendent, to enlarge an opening in the said foundation, it became necessary to cut away part of the stone work which had been taid in Laurence's Rosendale Hydraulic Cement, since the month of June last past. I found this Cement to have acquired more hardness and tenacity than any stone work I ever had occasion to remove, being nearly equal to the same mass of solid rock. I will further state, that in my vocation I have removed stone work in Europe, that had stood upwards of two hundred years, and constructed of such as were considered the best materials, but, as above stated, I have never met with any wall of equal hardness and solidity, as that part of the Custom House foundation, though so recently constructed. I therefore recommend the said Cement as greatly superior to any other material I have met with, for taying every description of stone or brick work.

A CARD. EBERLE "AT HOME "-The sons of mirth A and the companions of good fellowship are respectfully notified that their annual meeting will be held in the Temple of Thalia (Werren Theatre) on FRIDAY EVENING, April 24, of Thalia (Werren Theatre) on FRIDAY EVENING, April 24, 1335.

The President protem begs leave to assure them that a new budget has been opened, and lots of racy jokes await their consideration. On which occasion, if they will but just "drop in," they will not add "I hope, I don't intrude."

The President fully aware of the immense excitement which this aunouncement must necessarily create in the goodly City of Boston, and the consequent rush to the Box Office, did intend, to have sold tickets of admission by auction, but he somewhat pri les himself on those republican principles, which give an equality of right to all classes of the community, and means therefore to abiae by the old adage, "First come, first served;" trusting, however, that should there be any broken heads or bruised arms in the anticipated contests, they may be able to find an anodyne for all their hurts in the "Mots of good cheers," which will be so beautifully provided for them. Come, then, all ye who are troubled with the spleen—who carry care upon their hearts and sorrow in their souls, and, though Shakspeare could not find a balm for hurt minds, EBERLE, will.

The meeting will be holden between the hours of seven and eleven—a variety of new and novel subjects will be started, and among others, a practical experiment will be mude to show how long "a man may to use a down east expression) hold a steady stream of laugh without actually splitting his jaws."

Come, then, see—try—and prove.

Come, then, see—try—and prove.

Richmond, 9th Nov 1822.

Size—It has been my wish for a considerable time, to communicate the good effect with which I have used your 'Patent specific Cintment.' I have applied this olutiment during the last four years, to every species of tumor and wound without failure to produce a cure in every intance. I consider it the most decided and efficacious remedy in all cases of tumor, be the cause what it may, and I have found nothing so good for wounds of any description. It may be proper to add that the cure of a tumor called White Swelling, given over by the most distinguished physicians as incurable, and which they decided would, without amputation, prove fatal to the patient, was, under my immediate notice, effected by the use of your ointment, and the patient is in fifth health, his limb affected by the tumor being restored to a perfect state of soundness. Also, that the leg of a man upwards of 80 years old, which had been wounded, and exhibited one dreadfully affected surface from knee to foot, and which for more than two years had been considered incurable, was effectually cured by the application of this ointment. I mention these two cases which fell under my immediate notice and management, as a decided evidence of the efficacy of this remedy in cases of tumor and of ulcers. I have experienced as decidedly the good effect of this remedy in the cure of folons and every species of fresh wound. In addition to the above cases it may be proper to state what I know of its sure effects as a remedy in all cases of scrofulous tumor. A most violent and hopeless case of this description occurred in a servant of my own. It had baffled the most skill the medical treatment, but was subdued by Judkins's ointment. For Wm Judkins. of the late convention.

Richmond, 9th Nov 1823.

JOHN TALIAFERRO.

From the Hon J. Coke, member of the House of Representatives in Congress.

Washington city, March 26, 1826.

Sin—My son having been afflicted for five years with white swelling, and having been afflicted for five years with white swelling, and having seen afflicted for five years with white swelling, and having applied every remedy recommended by the most eminent physicians within my reach, without success, I at length procured one jug of Dr Judkins's patent specific citions accompanying the cintment; and state for the benefit of the afflicted, that before one jug was used, a perfect cure was effected. My son has enjoyed good health ever since. I have no doubt, that to the cintment alone he is indebted—as nothing else was used for more than nine months before the application of the cintment.

Respectfully,

Dr Wm Judkins.

PROM 1000 to 10,000 DOLLARS REWARD!

Whereas during the eighteen months practice of the subscriber on the Thomsonian principle, at his Infirmary for healing the sick in Harvard street in Boston, under the patronage of Doct Samuel Thomson, the Father of said system—out of the twenty years' acquaintance he has had with the same, he has had several hundred cases of disease under his care, of that character with which mankind are generally afflicted—the patients being of all ages, from the infant to the aged man—a great portion of whom have been cured, and generally all benefited—not one having died under his care at the Infirmary—and whereas the foregoing facts ought of themselves alone, in all free, inquiring minds, completely to establish the superior efficacy of the botanical remedies of Doct Samuel Thomson (not Benja. Thompson of Concord, N. H. or Jesse Thompson of Mt. Vernou Infirmary,) over those of any other known medical system, whether the same be of ancient or modern date, even apart from a body of evidence that can be adduced from of Mt. NOW, THEREFORE, the subscriber hereby proposes and offers to the government of the Massachusetts General Hospital, or to any other medical institution established in Massachusetts, under the superintendence of the most popular and skilful physicians, to take one half of any number of patients that may apply for admission in said hospital, and remove the same to his Infirmary; and he will pledge himself under a for feiture of from ONE to TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS to effect more cures in less than half the time that the faculty may consume on the other portion left in the hospital

By Should this offer be accepted, the undersigned will give satisfactory security to pay the aforesaid sum or sums of money in case he incurs the forfeiture, and shall expect the faculty to do the same.

The uniform success which has attended the use of it where it has been extensively used, in Boston and various other parts of the United States, and in the West Indies, attested by disin terested and highly respectable persons, affords, next to a trial of the medicine itself, the best commentary upon its virtues, and the best recommendation which can be offered to those who are unacquainted with it.

Extract of a letter received from a gentleman in Boston, who had suffered severely from indigestion for three years. 'During this time, I suffered very much from mental depression, constant pain in the head and breast, and side, sharp shooting pains over shinost the whole system—the food that I ate seemed to pass into my lungs and there remain, giving me great pain at The uniform success which has attended the use of it where

At times, I suffered so much from the pain of indigestion as to be confined to the bed for two or three days. During one of these most severe attacks, I was induced by the advice of a friend to try your Vegetable Medicine. In the course of a few weeks I found myself much better, and by the time I had taken two bottles, considered myself wholly free from the complaint. I continue, on the least feeling of any thing like indigestion or pressure on the myself wholly free from the complaint. I continue, on the least feeling of any thing like indigestion or pressure on the stomach, to take about a table spoonful of it, which, in the course of a few hours, completely restores me. It has had with me a very wonderful effect, in strengthening the stomach and invigorating the whole system, and judging by my own case, I consider it in all diseases connected with the digestive organs, to be a very valuable medicine.

This certifies that my daughter has for a long time been troubled with a bad cough, pains in her side, under the shoulder blade, and in her head; she was unable to eat any kind of food without it producing severe pains in her stomach; her sleep was very restless, attended with slight sweats, and in fact she had all the most aggravated symptoms of consumption.—
Frequent journeys into the country had been tried without producing any effect. She was at last recommended to try the American Pulmonary Balsam, by her physician, as it had been known to afford great relief in such cases, and to our great surprise she was in a short time totally relieved from all the above symptoms. I can therefore cordially recommend to every one afficted with any affection of the lungs or stomach; to try this medicine, as in my opinion, it will much morethanrealize their expectations.

DOSITIVE, OR NO PAY.—Mrs. Hill's Cough Drops, or Vegetable Health Restorative.—Prepared entirely from Vegetables.

More than forty years have now elapsed since the receipt was given me by my uncle, a celebrated Physician, at a time that I was troubled with a very lad cough and cold. After taking one dose, I found immediate relief, and a few doses cured me en irely; the effects were astonishing quick, and the numerous in atances of the wonderful efficacy of these drops on different peo ple, has induced me to put them up in Phials, with directions, under the impression it would be a public benefit. And as that is my sole aim—and to convince the public that is all, and as a sure guarantee against quackery and deception. I authorise my agents to return the money to all those that do not get relief by their returning the bottle and directions. The relief and absolute cure, particularly of those numerous and complicated disorders arising from neglected colds, is amply attested by the acknowledged approbation of those who are now restored to perfect health, as well as many in the decline of life who frank ly acknowledge having received great relief from the use of them in the following diseases, viz—Coughs, colds, asthma, spitting of blood, hooping cough, difficulty of breathing, influenza, quinsca, phthisic, croup, and all disorders arising from colds. UNRIVALLED EXPEDITION!

By Rail Road Cars and U. S. Mail Coaches.

THE TREMONT LINE: in conjunction with the Rail Road, is now prepared to convey to and from Providence, all passengers who may wish to avail themselves of this safe, elegant and expeditious conveyance.

The superiority of this route over all others, will appear obvious on a moment's reflection. The fact that passengers who leave Boston at 7 A. M. arrive in Providence as soon as those who leave two hours earlier—at 5, and stop to breakfast on the road—seems necessary only to be known, to induce all passengers to secure seats in the Rail Road Line.

Cars leave depot, foot of the Common, every day at 7 A. M. to meet the boats. On Sunday, at 9. Also, at 11 A. M. to Canton, thence by coaches, via Foxboro' the shortest and most level route, to Providence.

Returning, leave Providence on the arrival of the boats, and arrive in Boston in 4 nours.

U. S. Mail Coach leaves as usual at 5 A. M. For seats, be

DURE BEAR'S OIL may be had by the groce, dozen or single bottle, of A. BOYDEN, Hancock-st.

As in all cases, so especially in this, Venders, if they wish to secure the patronage of the public, should be extremely cautious not to sell an article for the Hair which tends to counter act rather than assist nature,

The virtues of Bear's Oil have been too long tested to need any eulogium; and at this time no one can doubt of its being

The virtues of Bear's Oil have been too long tested to need any eulogium; and at this time no one can doubt of its being the very best article for strengthening and promoting the growth of the Hair. An honest prejudice against the use of Bear's Oil has long existed, arising from two causes—the improper method of purifying it, and the imposition upon the public of a spurious article. That this prejudice may be wholly removed, this article now offered is warranted the pure Oil, rendered more pleasant by the addition of a little perfume—and the possibility of its injuring the Hair is entirely precluded by the manner in which it has been purified. To prevent fraud, the genuine is enclosed in two wrappers, the inside one being signed Arnold Boyden.
